STEP UP YOUR GAME!

Seasonal Tech and Warehouse Interns Wanted

THE CHOICE IS YOURS:

- A. Flip burgers at a dead-end restaurant job with absolutely no benefit to your future college and job application prospects.
- B. Stock shelves or work the register at some boring low-wage retail store, also with no benefit to your future college or job application prospects.
- C. Work for an Inc. "Best Workplaces" awarded company fixing, upgrading, and processing orders for computers while you listen to your favorite beats on your headphones and have evenings and weekends free to gank noobs on Fortnite or binge watch your favorite show.

The truth is, working at FireFly Computers is a blast. Sure we work hard, but you get to spend the day with people who like to geek out like you. When we're not watching Gamer's Nexus, Linus Tech Tips, Jayztwocents, or our favorite Twitch stream, we love talking about stuff like MOBAs and first-person shooters and Stranger Things and anime.

Besides your regular duties, as a Seasonal Tech and Warehouse intern you'll also be given the optional choice of becoming a technology sales intern or business intern for 1-2 weeks out of the summer. Sales interns make phone calls and interact with customers in a professional office environment, while business interns assist with various aspects of FireFly's day to day company operations. It's a great opportunity to gain experience, try new things, and develop professional connections you can use for references on future college applications or job interviews. After graduation, many of our former interns actually return to FireFly for full time employment.

With FireFly you can feel good about the work you do. The devices you repair and upgrade are used by students all across the country to access classroom assignments, enhance learning, and collaborate with peers. The skills you gain can help you earn Google and Microsoft certifications to advance your technology career or wow college recruiters, and you'll finally know how to build that sweet gaming rig you've always wanted and have some cash to do it.

BENEFITS INCLUDE

- Making your friends jealous because your job is cooler than theirs
- Having something great for future resumes, college applications, etc.
- Opportunity for 1-2 weeks of sales and/or business experience in a professional office setting
- Fun, interesting work environment
- Predictable, guaranteed paychecks
- Predictable schedule
- Holidays off
- Bonuses and other incentives
